

ABOUT US:

Ken Mellick, CEO of Universal Contracting started in the construction business working for his uncle at a summer job during high school. After five years of service in the Army and a tour in Vietnam, Ken married his wife, Joan, and began building a family of six children who eventually took their places in the family business.

Now employing over fifty associates spanning three family generations, Universal Roof & Contracting residential and Universal Contracting commercial, have been providing Florida home and business owners quality planning, design and construction services for over twenty years.

From Ken Mellick to each member of this growing team, personal integrity and high standards have propelled Universal Contracting to a leading position in the Central Florida community and Florida's Commercial Construction and Roofing Industries. We share Ken's passion for quality workmanship and superior customer service and are honored to serve our community with excellence.
